Knockout Brown of Chicago Has Jack Dillon's "Guat."

liberate the evening he polished off Frank Moran and put the Pitteburgher in the discard that no one would think of him as a "wild man" in the ring. They say, however.

that there is one fighter who has Dillon's goat. Only in Dillon's case it doesn't work out in the usual way. It imply makes Dillon go in and fight a rough and tumble style in his engurness to deliver a knockout. There's no use talking about that

"here's no use taking about that match," said Dillon a little while ago when a fight with Chicago K. O. Brown was suggested. "I don't like that fellow and I'm going to hand him a chance to get some money."
"Brown is the one man Itilion hates," explained a friend of Dillon's. "Brown is the one man Itilion hates," explained a friend of Dillon's. "There's something about the Great that get on Jack's nerves. He can't see Brown without wanting to smash him They've fought seven times, and svery time it isn't a boxing matchit's street style. Brown is a rough-house fighter, and Jack gives it to him in his own way. The tuinute the bell rings Dillon is out of his corner and across the ring, crazy to get at him and it's a roughbouse for fairmand all over the ring, Last time they fought Eddie Smith of Chicago referred. Brown and Dillon went to the floor together, rolled over and over, one on top and then the other, and punching all the time. They rolled against Smith's legs and be fell on top of them, and it was a merry mixup all around. You wouldn't think it of Dillon, would you?

TATE LEWIS, manager of Charle White, is a candid manager. As a rule managers "take great in claiming that their men have never been knocked down.

"I can't say that," said Nate times, at least. But he almays gets up right away, and when he hits the other fellow the other fel-low stays down. He never took a knockdown yet without knocking the other fellow down harder immediately count of a single second. Most of the others need a full 'ten.'

"There's a tough youngster up in Buffalo — Young Kansas. White fought him. Kansas hit Charlie a wallop on the jaw and knocked him flat. Charlie rose, but he was dared. Kansas walloped him again. The blew landed on Charlie's jaw so hard it lifted him clear ever the ropes and knocked him out of the ring. He fell to two men at the ringside who didn't have time to get out of the way, and that eaved him. He climbed back into the ring. Kansas rushed him. Charlie hit him on the jaw and they counted him out. That's the difference between White and the other get up. Charlie least of all. White and the other get up, Charile least of all,

Charlie knew how hard he hit him.

All of a sudden Vic jumped up and rushed with undiminished fury. White was surprised. A little later he knocked Moran down vith a hard body hook. "The first crack out of the box "The first crack out of the box Mcran swung on Charlie's mouth and split his itp, knocking him down. That was a close call for Charlie. He got up pretty dizzy and was busy standing the kid off for the rest of the round. When he came back to his corner all he said was: 'My, this is a good young fellow' I told him the only thing to do was to knock Moran out now, or the story of the knock-down would go all over the country. Charlie stepped out and Maran rushed. White knocked him down. Moran rolled over and over on the floor, and nobody thought he'd services of Jockey Joe McCahey, who was set down for five days for alleged interference with Serenest and Queen of the Water last Saturday. The funny thing about the ruling which set McCahey down is that Jockey Haynes, who rode Serenest, said McCahey was not at fault. In his opinion it was Garner who did the interfering on Vague. The stewards, however, took the Patrol Judge's word, and McCahey and his employers must suffer. If McCahey had a little of the aggressive loquacity of Jockey Huxton he might not now be on the ground. Buxton was suspended for alleged crowding on Pletone, from the Coche fan Stable too, by the way. He however, went into the stand and argued so forcibly that he had done no wrong that his sentence was rescinded. McCahey never has been known as a foul rider, and it is just possible the overgealous patrol judge has done him an injustice. He naturally must protect himself in races. He is paid to win races, not to lose them because of timidity.

Jimmy Rowe has a good filly in Bonnie Witch. She ran an excellent timed of seven or eight to pick from it every day.

"With our hitting punch, we will give you a battle," I told him.

"The warm weather will help us."

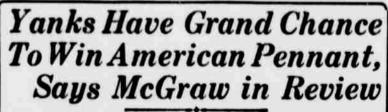

"The warm weather to lose their pep about this time."

I expect the warm weather to benefit my team. I believe good hot weather will put Matty back in shape, and, with Matty dt to work every the days, we will win the pennant. That is a prediction, Also with the jinx killed and Lobert coming back in condition, our bard luck appears to have left us. For the next two for the period of the man injustice, He naturally must protect himself in races, the is paid to win races, not to lose them because of timidity.

Jimmy Rowe has a good filly in Bonnie Witch. She ran an excellent time of the proving "Moran took an awful gruelling. Vic was very strong, game, and a tough boy to beat. I told everybody so, all over the country. And what was my reward for being fair to the boy? Why, his new manager, John the Barber, has been enlarging on the two knockdowns Vic handed Charlie until he has some beenle believing. two knockdowns vic handed Charlie until he has some people believing that White had the worst of it in the fight. He put Moran on here, and he even got out a poster with a reproduction of an old photograph of Willie Ritchie whipping Joe Rivers, and Rivers lying on the floor with his face on his hands being counted out. The line under read: 'How Moran knocked down Charlie White.' Of course the impression was that it was course the impression was that it was a picture of Moran and White, and White was taking the count—which he never did. Funny game, lan't it?"

The popularity of the Butler colors was shown when Kilkenny Buy returned to the scales after winning the fifth race. It seemed as if the whole grand stand arose and applauded. Kilkenny Boy got a giltedged ride from Johnny Leftus. Under any other rider he might have been beaten.

don't agree with Johnny that the Braves will win.

There are five clubs still in the National League race. These are flooking, floston, Philadelphia, the Giants and the Cubs. However, I don't count very heavily on the Cubs. Just as soon as I came out and picked the Detroit Tigers as having the best chance to win the American League pennant, Jenning's club began to fail back, but the slump may be only temporary. The Browns hit the Tigers some slams that turned them back a little. Every time Jennings sends one of his pitchers, with the exception of Coveleskie, to the box, he shoots a prayer along with him. The twirler needs it. If Hughle had any pitchers he would make that race look sick. Coveleskie is the only dependable one, and I could tell the other American Leaguers how to beat him, but I won't, for I am pulling for Jennings. It was the Giants who him, but I won't, for I am pulling for Jennings. It was the Giants who drove Coveleskie out of the National League after he had pitched us out of
